

The week ahead...

Spring 1 Week 4: w/c 23rd January 2023

Good morning,

How are we already at the half way mark for this half term? The Spring term feels like it's flying by – and we still have so much to do! Next week, there are a few important meetings taking place so please take note of the cover arrangements for the week. After a successful initial meeting with potential parents for the PTFA, we have invited them into school on Friday morning to see celebration assembly and for a tour of the school. This is not a learning walk! It's an opportunity for them to experience our school at its finest – when the children are in. We hope that this will help them to see how they could support the school further.

Key events this week:

Star of the Week

This week, you should seek your star of the week out in your PE lessons. Look out for those children who have excelled during the lesson in terms of determination, resilience and teamwork. It could also be the child who doesn't normally enjoy PE or struggles but really puts a lot of effort into that lesson!

Nicky cover: week 3

Monday pm:	Becky Reception
Tuesday pm:	Lewis Year 1
Wednesday pm:	Nicky
Thursday pm:	Rachel Year 2
Friday am:	Alison Year 5

Wednesday Mass:

The Year 6 class mass takes place on Wednesday at 10am.

We will confirm when the next whole school mass will take place in due course.

Staff Meeting

The staff meeting on Wednesday will be an update on OFSTED following Paul's recent courses. Please make sure you get to Paul's office as prompt as possible to allow enough time to go through everything.

Presentation People

Paul is still really keen to see those children whose handwriting is beautiful. Please feel free to take anyone down as he would love to give out housepoints to those children!

Song of the week

January certainly gives us our fair share of weather conditions. One moment it is mild and the next moment we're waking up to snow but, if there is one thing we can be sure of, when that wind blows, it bites! John's song choice is therefore perfect for this month so please enjoy 'Blowin' in the wind' by Bob Dylan!

Learning Walk

The learning walk has now moved to Wednesday 8th February. When you are looking at your classroom, please consider whether you are able to read things on your wall from all areas of your classroom. Visibility will be a key focus!

Have a wonderful weekend!
Paul, Alison and Rachel
