

The week ahead...

Spring 1 Week 5: w/c 30th January 2023

Good morning,

We've made it through the half way point... well done! I've just finished my tour with the parents and to say they were amazed and overwhelmed by what they saw is an understatement. I think they understand what we see on a daily basis and can feel the love that we pour into our lessons and the children. I know you didn't do anything specific but thank you for making this school a joy to show people around. Back to next week - it's another busy one so keep an eye on the key events for the week.

Celebration Assemblies

Please ensure the star of the week from each class sits on the 'best seats in the house' for any assemblies or hymn practice. They will be set out like they were this morning. Following the success of the success of the parents visiting this morning, parents will be invited to our celebration assemblies after half term.

Song of the week

The parents loved coming round the school today and were absolutely amazed at the design, the feel and the facilities that are available. They genuinely couldn't believe how big the school is and how wonderfully warm the school felt. We might not be perfect, but we're pretty close so Emma's song choice is a wonderful fit. Enjoy Ed Sheeran 'Perfect'.

Assessments

Our next round of assessments will be at the end of Spring 2, not at the end of this half term. Y2 & Y6 feel free to assess if you need to for SATs purposes.

Have a wonderful weekend!
Paul, Alison and Rachel
