➤ A Little Note from Mrs Hensman

A very happy Friday to you all!

Despite the awful weather, our school has been filled with joy and happiness today. It was truly wonderful celebrating 'Our Heritage Day' with our children during assembly, and some of the outfits were truly beautiful. Thank you to everyone who completed one of the Heritage cards. There is so much amazing information on there, that I want to do it justice and will work on a special booklet to showcase all of your stories, phrases, traditions and roots. Inside this newsletter, is a small snapshot to give you an indication about how far our little school in Weoley Castle touches.

You will have all received a QR code for a parent questionnaire. I would love to hear your views so please take the time to fill it in for me. We can only make changes and introduce new things, if we know what you want.

With every blessing,

Mrs Hensman

And finally, I hope you all have a wonderful half term holiday. Take the time to rest and recuperate and don't forget to turn the clocks back on Saturday night!

This Week at OLSR

It's the final day of the half term and there has been lots to celebrate this week.

- We celebrated our Harvest Festival mass with the parish on Wednesday, and the Year 4 children explained about how they have decorated the statue area. Please take a look at it as you go past!
- Our Governors met for the first time and learnt about the wonderful work the children are already doing.
- Children in years 1 - 6 began using their new handwriting books and some children's handwriting unbelievable.
- The Handwriting Fairy (me) went around Years 4 - 6 and surprised some children with their first handwriting pens to reward them for beautiful handwriting.
- Years 2 and 4 enjoyed Forest School this week and managed to miss the rain.
- Boys in Years 5 and 6 attended a football tournament against other schools on Thursday evening and showed great skill and determination.
- Children in Years 3 - 6 enjoyed a 'Live Reading Session' as part of the National Year of Reading, where they learnt how to draw in the style of the Beano.
- We celebrated 'Our Heritage Day' in school and saw some beautiful outfits throughout the school.

Celebrating Our Children

Each week, we celebrate children for a range of different reasons but with the core understanding that they, in some way, have shone brightly in their classrooms. We celebrate them as part of our 'Gifts from God' assembly.

If your child has been chosen to receive an award, you will be contacted the day before to invite you to our assembly. We look forward to sharing your child's successes with you this year!

Star of the week: This week, we have celebrated our Class Wish Luminaries in assembly. The teachers have looked closely at who has lived out their class wish this half term. It was wonderful seeing them beam with pride as they received their badges and certificates. Well done to all the children!

Faith & Mission

This Sunday is the 30th Sunday of Ordinary Time and the Gospel is Matthew's Gospel story about the greatest commandment.

Solidarity

We are one human family.
We show love by standing alongside others, especially those who need help.

Compassionate

We notice when someone needs us.

Loving

We choose to do something about it.

Think about your week...

How do I show God my love?

Who is my neighbour?

Who could I help today?

Your Gospel challenge:

Love in action!

During half term, do one kind thing each day — help at home, include someone or show care to a neighbour.

A Prayer for This Week

Loving God,

help us to love you with all our hearts
and to love our neighbours as ourselves.

Give us compassionate hearts to notice when others need us,
and loving hands ready to help.

May our words and actions bring your love to everyone we meet.

Amen.

SEND Spotlight

This week's focus:

SEND and strengths

What does this mean?

A clear and simple explanation of this week's topic.

SEND describes an area in which a child may need additional support. It does not define the whole child.

What parents need to know

Key information, advice and why this matters for your child/children.

Children with SEND have individual talents, interests, personalities and aspirations. A strengths-based approach helps children develop confidence and recognise what they can do while adults provide support with things they find more difficult.

What you can do at home

Practical tips and ideas to support your child/children.

Notice your child's strengths and name them: 'You kept trying,' 'You are very creative,' 'You were a kind friend.' Success is much broader than academic attainment.

Worried about your child? Start here

If you have any concerns about your child's learning, development or possible SEND, please speak to your child's class teacher first.

Your child's teacher works with them every day and is best placed to discuss what they are noticing in school alongside what you are seeing at home.

If concerns remain, you can request an Initial Concern Evaluation (ICE) Meeting with your child's class teacher.

At the ICE Meeting, parents and teachers will discuss the concerns together, look at your child's needs and agree possible actions and support.

This week's focus:

Keeping Safe During the Holidays

What does this mean?

A clear and simple explanation of this week's topic.

School holidays often mean children have more freedom, more time online and changes to their usual routines.

A few clear family expectations can help children enjoy their break safely.

What parents need to know

Key information, advice and why this matters for your child/children.

Children need to understand where they are allowed to go, who they can spend time with, when they should return and what they should do if plans change.

More free time can also mean increased gaming and internet use.

What you can do at home

Practical tips and ideas to support your child/children.

Before the holiday, agree: where children may go;

- who they may be with;
- when they must return;
- how they can contact you;
- your expectations for devices and gaming.

Make sure your child knows your telephone number.

Talk about it together

Questions or conversation starters to help you explore the topic as a family.

Try asking:

"If you were somewhere and started to feel unsafe or uncomfortable, what could you do?"

Need help?

Further support, useful contacts or where to get more information.

Make sure your child knows they can contact you for help even if they think they have broken a rule or made a poor decision.

If you need support during a school holiday, use the emergency or support services appropriate to the situation.

Digital

Wellbeing

Each week, we'll provide a different guide to help you with online safety at home.

Take the time to get away from screens this half, get out in the fresh air and enjoy nature.

If you're inside, enjoy a good book, a warm drink or even a good film

Whatever you do, please don't spend it stuck in front of a screen!

At The National College, our WakeUpWednesday guides empower and equip parents, carers and educators with the confidence and practical skills to be able to have informed and age-appropriate conversations with children about online safety, mental health and wellbeing, and climate change. 10 Top Tips for Parents and Educators

CONNECTING CHILDREN WITH NATURE

Spending time outdoors plays a vital role in children's health, happiness, and development. This guide explores why nature matters, the barriers families may face, and practical ways to help children reconnect with wildlife and the outdoors. Here we highlight simple activities, creative ideas, and safe approaches to encourage exploration, confidence, and a lasting love of nature in everyday life.

- 1 TIME OUTSIDE MATTERS
Evidence shows that time in nature can benefit children's mental and physical health, learning, social development, and overall wellbeing. Nature does not need to be rare, grand, or far away to matter. Common, small, and local spaces can offer valuable opportunities too. Despite competing demands on children's time, many say being in nature makes them happy.
- 2 UNDERSTAND THE BARRIERS
Children's outdoor play has reduced significantly in recent generations. With independent play and roaming also becoming less common. Reasons can include alternative play options, worries about safety and risk, fewer suitable play spaces, busier roads, and increasingly structured routines. Understanding these barriers helps adults respond with practical, realistic ways to make outdoor time easier and more appealing.
- 3 TAKE ACTIVITIES OUTSIDE
Children can benefit from being in natural spaces even when engaging with nature is not the main activity. Think about everyday pursuits that could be moved outdoors, such as reading, playing cards and board games, arts and crafts, hide and seek, exercising, eating, or chatting. Involve children and young people in creating their outdoor space – for example, an upturned box can become a table, while cushions wrapped in strong bags can make temporary outdoor seating.
- 4 USE TECHNOLOGY POSITIVELY
Too much screen time can be unhelpful, but technology can also support nature connection, particularly for older children and young people. They can use a camera to document the wildlife they find, create art projects, or record natural sounds. Apps can help identify birdsong, plants, insects, or stars. Older children and young people may also enjoy citizen science projects, where their observations contribute to real environmental research.
- 5 CREATE MINI ADVENTURES
Green spaces are brilliant for exploration, adventure, creativity, and problem-solving. Adventures can be small and local, such as hunting for insects, looking for natural colours, or spotting patterns. They can also be bigger, including hill walks, den building, rock pooling or watching the sunset. These experiences can create moments of awe and leave lasting memories.
- 6 BUILD NATURE AT HOME
Even small spaces can help children connect with nature through play and creativity. Seeds can be grown in windowsill boxes or hanging baskets, while herbs, strawberries, flowers, and cherry tomatoes often thrive in containers. Bird feeders, nest boxes, and insect hotels can support local wildlife. Indoors, garden magazines, leaves, and natural textures can inspire imaginative art, storytelling, and play.
- 7 EXPLORE FURTHER AFIELD
Holidays and weekends can offer children and young people the opportunity to visit country parks, nature reserves, waterways, woods, and the coast. These places may create memorable "Wow!" moments, such as rock pooling, exploring forests, pond dipping, or simply visiting somewhere new. Local activity centres may also offer taster sessions in canoeing, climbing, or archery, helping children and young people try outdoor activities safely.
- 8 ENGAGE OLDER CHILDREN
Teenagers may be less interested in adult-led activities designed for younger children. They often respond better to challenges, independence, skill building, and meaningful responsibility. Wildlife surveys, photography, outdoor cooking, whittling with safe tools, den building, or conservation tasks can feel more purposeful. Allowing controlled risks can support confidence, judgement, and a stronger connection with nature.
- 9 NOTICE LOCAL NATURE
Natural spaces enable unstructured play and exploration. Adults don't need specialist knowledge to help children enjoy nature and wildlife. Start by noticing what can be heard, smelled, and seen in a garden, school grounds, local park, or on the way to the shops. Encourage walking at a slower pace, looking for birds, leaves, insects, clouds, colours, and patterns, so that nature becomes part of daily living.
- 10 MANAGE SENSIBLE RISKS
Taking certain small risks in nature can in fact be valuable for children. Getting wet, muddy, or even stung by a bee can help them understand the consequences of nature, cope with discomfort, build confidence outdoors, and assess situations more safely in future. Adults can support them in these moments by setting clear boundaries, supervising appropriately, teaching safety, and preparing children for all sorts of weather and natural spaces, while still allowing their curiosity, independence, and resilience to grow.
